14th Sunday in Ordinary Time July 5, 2020

It must have been shocking for people in the first century to hear Jesus refer to God as "Father," as he does in today's Gospel. The word used is abba, which could actually be translated as "papa." In using this form of address, Jesus was emphasizing that God is not a faraway deity, disinterested and detached from creation. God is personal, loving, and involved in our lives.

God is our Father, and the "little ones" are his children who are humble enough to see that God has revealed himself in Christ. Perhaps the "wise and learned" were to proud and stubborn to have an open mind about new things God was doing in Jesus. Or maybe God calls the humble so that there will be no question that it is the work of God, and not just the accomplishments of important people. Whatever the reason, true wisdom seems to come to those who are humble.

Jesus himself embodies both wisdom and humility, and for those who will follow his example, he promises rest. But this kind of res does not mean inactivity; it means refreshment, peace of mind and renewed energy. The yoke was the harness that attached the cargo to a beast of burden. When Jesus says "take my yoke," he means "let's trade yokes—let me take your burden from you." In the book of Sirach, the yoke represents the Law. In Matthew 23:1-4 is associated with the scribes' and Pharisees' interpretation of the Law. Jesus takes away our failure to carry the burden of the Law and replaces it with grace; that is, the love and forgiveness of the Father that comes to us through Christ.

Question of the Week

When have I realized that my expectations had fooled me? Regarding hardships, what have I learned from asking for help?

Pastoral Reflection

This weekend, we as Americans will celebrate and commemorate a most historic day which changed the lives of our founding ancestors and the future of this country forever and that is none other than the 4th of July. For it was on this history making day, 244 years ago in 1776 when the Declaration of Independence was adopted and signed by the members of the Continental Congress and its President, John Hancock.

As we celebrate our Nation's 244th Birthday, and still experiencing the growing pains in our realization of the importance of the words as expressed in the Declaration of Independence concerning our God-given "unalienable rights" as an expression of freedom and rights for all peoples our nation, I am reminded of the historic visit that Pope Benedict XVI made to the United States back in April of 2008.

Throughout his visit, our Holy Father gave a kind of "catechesis, a teaching on America" and explained some of the reasons why he considers "America great". These were the Pope's words not President

Trump's. He explained that one of the reasons for this "greatness" is that America connects "freedom with faith." Many times, when we as a people hear the word "freedom," we think of freedom from something or someone. Certainly, this is true in the sense "freedom" from tyranny and or oppression, but the word "freedom" also means freedom to do something positive, freedom to do something good for and to our brothers and sisters. I am not talking about a "freedom" that just lets us do whatever we want and desire whenever we want regardless of other people's rights or at the expense of other people that is not true "freedom." As a society of individuals, we do need order, we do need laws and regulations to govern us in our relationship with each other in order that we may live in harmony and peace with each other which enables us to function together as a society. But our "freedom with faith" is a "freedom" that allows us as a people to pursue the good, to do the good that which is just, right, noble, and virtuous. This is they type of "freedom" that our Holy Father was referring to.

In the drafting of the Deceleration of Independence, our founders knew that there were certain principles that govern and apply to all peoples given to them by their Creator, "unalienable rights" which "among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." Because of this founding principle of "unalienable rights', Pope Benedict stated, "American's quest for freedom has been guided by the conviction that the principles governing political and social life are intimately linked to a moral order based on the dominion of God the Creator." Thus, from its beginning, our American "freedom" has always been tied to morality and to religion.

The Pope also linked "freedom" with virtue. He said, "freedom is not only a gift but also a summons to personal responsibility, of self-discipline, sacrifice for the common good and a sense of responsibility towards the less fortunate." "We are our brother's and sister's keepers." As human beings, as a nation, what affects one of us affects all of us. In God's eyes, All lives matter!

As a people, as a nation, we have a long history of taking care of our brothers and sisters in need, especially during this pandemic, not only in our own country but throughout the world following the words of the Lord, "As long as you did it to one of these the least of my brothers and sisters you did it to me."

The Holy Father also stated that "America is great because it has welcomed immigrants. We are a nation of immigrants. Many of our family members, great grandparents, grandparents, fathers, mothers, brothers, and sisters came to this land from other countries. Often bringing with them very little except the clothes on their backs but with their culture, their faith and their hearts filled with dreams and new hope seeking a better life for themselves and their families." We have truly become a melting pot.

It was the immigrant Church in this country that build up many great cities in our nations. How true the inscription on the Statue of Liberty, "Give me your tired, your poor and your huddled masses yearning to breathe free." While most of us may have been born in this country, our ancestry has it roots in other countries and cultures of the world. We have always been a people of hope and a land of dreams. And that way many still come to us this day filled with hopes and dreams for a better future.

Although he was not specifically addressing us on this Fourth of July, whereon we celebrate our day of independence, I think that Pope Benedict XVI remarks made during his historic visit many years ago still ring true for us this day. "In the land of religious liberty, Catholics found freedom not only to practice their faith but also to participate fully in civic life, bringing their deepest moral convictions to the public square and cooperating with their neighbors in shaping a vibrant, democratic society" for all.

"Today's" Forty of July celebration "is more than an occasion of gratitude for graces received" and blessing bestowed on our county. "It is also a summons to move forward with firm resolve to use wisely the blessings of freedom, in order to build a future of hope for coming generations" and for all peoples.

Happy 4th of July!!!

2020 Mission Cooperative Mission Appeal July 18-19, 2020

The 2020 Mission Cooperative Appeal Collection will be taken as a second collection next weekend. Because of the coronavirus pandemic, the missionaries are not able to be with us this year; however, although physically distant, we have the opportunity to be present to them through our spiritual and financial support. The ministries of The Maryknoll Fathers and Brothers will benefit from our parish's generosity. Our assistance will help with them with their medical outreach to those with eye disease as well as vocational skills training for those with blindness. Our donations also will provide famine relief and assistance for refugees in South Sudan, formation of Maryknoll seminarians and care for infirm missioners. Our response to Christ's call that we "love one another" will bring His hope into the lives of many. We ask your generous response. Checks may be made out to The Catholic Mission Aid Office. On their behalf, thank you.
